

I think the FCC should work to decrease the number of stations that one owner could own. There is too little diversity in radio programming now and virtually no locally originated programming which severely reduces the public service value of radio broadcasting.